Gemini Wins Safety Council Award

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Cannon Falls, MN – If safety is as simple as ABC, then it's no surprise that Gemini Incorporated, a leading manufacturer of dimensional letters for the sign industry, is also a leader when it comes to safety.

With a score of 98 points out of a possible 100, Gemini's Minnesota manufacturing facility recently earned an Outstanding Achievement Award from the Minnesota Safety Council. The award was made in recognition of Gemini's excellence in injury prevention performance in occupational safety. The award is based on:

1. Low incident rates (accident) compared to national numbers and state numbers
2. Improvement in lowering incidents from previous years
3. All applicable safety programs and policies
4. Passing all areas of responsibilities and accountabilities in safety
5. Demonstrating that the company has an active program that identifies and eliminates hazards
6. A thorough investigation process
7. An excellent training and communication program
8. Involvement in safety by all levels of personnel

The ABC's of safety – Always Be Careful – show that safety doesn't happen by accident. Gemini Incorporated has been a stickler for safe work habits ever since it first opened its doors in 1964, so it comes as no accident that awards like this come Gemini's way. In July 2009, the company received the Governor's Occupational Safety and Health Award. In presenting the award, Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty said that Gemini's "commitment to safety serves as an excellent example for all workplaces."

A chapter of the National Safety Council, the Minnesota Safety Council is a private, not-for-profit organization. Its mission is to make Minnesota a safer and healthier place to live by helping people and organizations prevent unintentional injuries at home, on the road, at work and at play.

To serve its customers better, Gemini has seven production facilities located in North America: Cannon Falls, Minnesota; Decorah, Iowa; Fallon, Nevada; Taylor, Texas; and Farmville, Virginia in the United States; Neustadt, Ontario in Canada; and Tamaulipas, Mexico.
